Under' Section 5 of the said Act, power has been given to the Central Government to make such Rules as appear to it necessary or expedient for the prevention of and for coping with, ter-rorist acts and disruptive activities. ' This is only an enabling provision. The main provisions of the Act were considered adequate to take immediate action to meet the requirements of the then prevailing situation and it was therefore not considered necessary to make the rules immediately. In the light of the experience gained after the Act was enacted, the question as to the matters which may be covered by the rules was considered in compilation with the conceraed Departments of the Gov-rnment and the Governments of States where such activities were reported. The rules were notiled on 13th November, 1986.
